SPORTING NOTES

Lending an international flavor to eviving sports seems to be the easiest thing in the world these days. Basebal coming into public notice, thanks to the numerous trades, mostings and spotlight manipulations of the mag-nates and at the same time is getting a touch of internationalists, Yachting has received some attention along this line and so has polo. Golf has not been neglected by Americans in not been neglected by Americans in seeking new world's to conquer and boxing has already been given a taste of competition in which the allied nations have been interested. Of the many sports still lacking for international expression since the signing of the armistice tennis threatens to take a big hold. Every sign lends authoristy to the statement that international competition with the famous Pavis cup as a goal, is coming at no great disas a goal, is coming at no great dis-tant date. Australia is at present the holder of the trophy, but America, England, Italy and France are all pre-paring to organize teams to enter the lists in an attempt to lift the cup. Some of the most sensational matche some of the most sensational matches ever staged in the history of tennis have resulted from the savingles for the Davis cup and have gained the keenest interest from sport lovers of
